A Brief Message from Tyler

First off, I want to apologize for the large gap of time since my last message that I wrote here in the newsletter. Each Tuesday, I have left the building with the promise to Adrienne that I'll write something before the newsletter is sent the following day. Each Wednesday, I have mentioned to Adrienne that I had not been able to get to that writing. The fact is that this Lenten season has been one of the busiest writing seasons that I have endured. Between additional sermons for Lenten services, regularly scheduled sermons for Sunday, and writing competencies for a certification that I have been thinking about, it has been a great deal. I have been a little bit spent on writing.

Today is March 20th, which is the anniversary of the birth of Fred Rogers in 1928. Mister Rogers, besides being a beloved television personality, was a Presbyterian pastor. He encouraged viewers with the kindest of words, "I like you as you are." He was an exceptional person. One of my personal favorite moments came when he was inducted into the TV Hall of Fame. You can find the video online here and I would recommend watching it in its entirety.

One particular moment that always is so touching to me isn't even part of his speech. A presenter by the name Jeffrey Erlinger comes on stage to present Mister Rogers with the acclamation. The camera pans to Mister Rogers, who is standing with his mouth wide open in happy shock. Mister Rogers gets on stage and in a room filled with thousands of people, focuses on Erlinger in a way in which it seems as though no one else is present. He was an incredible person and his craft of loving others is profound.

So, on this Mister Rogers Day, I hope that you'll do as Mister Rogers prompted often and take a moment to think of all the people who loved you into being. Imagine how pleased those people are that you thought of them right now. I am often reminded through story or memory of how meaningful Mister Rogers was with his work and I thought I'd share that with you today.
